PREFACE

With this booklet the Stamford Genealogical Society makes its debut into the world of genealogical publications. It has been compiled with the Golden Rule in mind - we have tried to put ourselves in the place of the searcher, as we ourselves have often been searchers in faraway locales. We have tried to anticipate what you would want if you were traveling and had just a few precious hours to spend in the land-of-your-fathers, or if you do your searching from a distance, we have tried to help you with the addresses of information sources and with lists of useful books.

This project was started over a year ago under the assiduous editorship of George L. M. Christopher of New Canaan. Richard S. R. Hubert of Greenwich was president of the Society at the time, and work has continued under the presidency of Robert W. Carder of Stamford, who has collected much of the material. With the work of a committee consisting of Mrs. Clifford P. Wickes, Jr., of Stamford, Mrs. Robert I. Cummin, formerly of Old Greenwich, Mr. George O. Pershing of Stamford, and Mr. Paul Prindle of Noroton Heights, as well as with great help from most members of the Society, we submit this booklet. We thank the many people of the community who cooperated in furnishing information.

We welcome inquiries. Those of a brief nature will be answered by our Society genealogist. For those requiring extensive research, we will suggest the name of a professional genealogist. Membership in our Society brings with it a regular Bulletin.

We do not claim this work to be complete or perfect, but we hope it may inspire societies, libraries and individuals to tell us of further material, especially unpublished, which can be made available to genealogists and historians. We hope to follow this booklet with a supplement so that Southwest Fairfield County will become one of the ideal fields for ancestor-searchers!

CHURCHES

To avoid repetition, the following applies to the information on churches of the six towns:

Only churches existing prior to 1900 are included.

The date on extreme right is the date of founding of the church.

Dates of earliest records are given but the records are not necessarily complete.

Denominations are listed alphabetically; churches of each denomination are listed chronologically.

Records, either original or photostatic copies thereof, are usually kept in the church office or at the parsonage nearby. The address of church, and telephones of both church and parsonage are given. It is suggested that, if one wishes to examine records, an appointment be made by telephone.

Many of the church records can be examined at other places which are indicated on each church notation:

S. P. Mead ABSTRACT OF CHURCH RECORDS

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Addresses of local libraries listed under each Town Section.

The following bibliography attempts to cover a very limited field (Southwest Fairfield County) and general works of Connecticut which would pertain to this area, with genealogies of its old families. We also state where these works can be found in local public libraries.

These libraries also have many standard genealogical works such as:

The Jacobus Indexes to Periodicals
Rider Index (34 Volumes through D)
Compendium of American Genealogy by Virkus
New England Genealogical Society Register
New York Genealogical & Biographical Society Record

and early records of the surrounding territory: early Massachusetts, Westchester County, New York, (especially of Rye), Long Island, etc.

Also, there are other libraries with extensive collections within the reach of the traveller:

Connecticut State Library
230 Capital Avenue (opposite State Capital)
Hartford, Connecticut

Connecticut Historical Society
1 Elizabeth Street (Some volumes can be mailed to members)
Hartford, Connecticut

New England Historical & Genealogical Society
Ashburton Place (Extensive loan collection for Boston, Massachusetts mailing to members)

Fairfield Historical Society Library
Fairfield, Connecticut

New York Genealogical & Biographical Society
112 East 58th Street
New York, New York

New York Public Library - Room 328
Fifth Avenue & 42nd Street
New York, New York

Various local organizations have limited collections, such as historical societies, churches and files at newspaper offices.

We have taken the liberty of shortening some long titles, abbreviating, and omitting the name of publishers as being of little use to you, but we have included the date of publication and author. In some of the multiple works here listed, especially newspaper files and series of directories, etc., the file may not be complete, but each check indicates at least part is available. Some works listed are more of a historical nature than strictly a genealogical, but who can separate the acts from the actors?
